CHAPTER 3: CONCLUSION AND FUTURE SCOPE

4.1 Conclusion

This project that I undertook was truly a very rewarding experience for me in more than one way. It has given a big thrust to my technical knowledge as prospective Software professional. It has also helped me enhance my skills on the personal front. And I feel extremely satisfied by the fact that I have managed to develop the project of course with equal contribution from my team members. I think I have exploited the opportunity that came my way to the fullest extent by increasing my technical know-how and also gaining the valuable work experience apart from studying the other subjects in our curriculum.

4.2 Future scope

The system recommends a facility to accept the deal of stock business between clients and organization manager. It also provides Books or related content according to demand as soon as possible which can make website visitor happy and full of content according to their desire. If possible then in future this webpage will make available different costly books and most studied books in free of cost. Since the application is available in the smartphone, it is easily available and accessible.
